

Why not share your experience with us

Contributed by Trevor Roberts
Monday, 28 July 2008
Last Updated Wednesday, 30 July 2008

Thousands of people all over the world experience something strange in their lives every day but are unable or frightened to relate their stories for fear of being labelled a weirdo or inventing the story.

You can rest assured that NPG members and guests understand this all too well and are happy to discuss your experience with you. All stories submitted by our guests are held in the strictest confidence and are posted anonymously.

When you post your story you may choose one or more of the following options:

- Submit your story and publish it without exception
- submit your story for NPG member discussion only
- submit your story for open public viewing
- submit your story for open public viewing and discussion
- hide your identity
- show your identity

Be assured that we will only publish according to your wishes

We sincerely look forward to hearing from you